PLACES TO VISIT IN ALBUQUERQUE

National Museum of Nuclear Science and History

601 Eubank Blvd. SE

This nationally chartered museum traces the history of nuclear-weapons development beginning with the top-secret Manhattan Project of the 1940's including a copy of the letter Albert Einstein wrote to President Franklin D. Roosevelt suggesting the possible need to beat the Germans at creating an atomic bomb. There is a permanent Marie Curie exhibit, a explanation of fusion display and full-scale models of the "Fat Man" and "Little Boy" bombs, as well as displays and films on the peaceful application of nuclear technology – including nuclear medicine – and other alternative energy sources.

Petroglyph National Monument

6001 Unser Blvd. NW

A nice outdoor adventure through an area of lava flows that were once hunting and gathering areas for prehistoric Native Americans, who left a chronicle of their beliefs etched on the dark basalt boulders. Some 15,000 petroglyphs have been found in this area on the west side of Albuquerque characterized by five extinct volcanoes. One of three trails, the Mesa Point Trail (30 minutes) climbs quickly up the side of a hill offering many petroglyph sightings as well as an outstanding view of the Sandia Mountains.

Albuquerque Museum

2000 Mountain Rd. NW

Located on the northeast corner of Old Town, this museum offers a collection of Spanish-colonial artifacts, which include Don Quixote style helmets, swords and horse armor. Also on display are a 16th century "vaqueros" exhibit" and an 18th century house compound with adobe floor and walls. There are also two films on Albuquerque history and a wonderful permanent art collection.

University of New Mexico Museums

Maxwell Museum of Anthropology - situated on the west side of the campus on Redondo Drive, just south of Las Lomas Blvd – offers two wonderful permanent exhibits: "Ancestors," which looks at human evolution, and "People of the Southwest," which is a archeological perspective of the southwest from 10,000 years ago to the 16th century. Nearby are the Geology Museum and Meteorite Museum which cover the gamut of recorded time from dinosaur bones to moon rocks.

Chile Facts and Myths

Researchers are constantly discovering and rediscovering uses for chile other than the obvious culinary delights. Among them:

Color:

Capsicum chiles in their non-pungent form, often called paprika, are used as the No. 1 food coloring agent in the US. Chile-based coloring is also used in paints, cosmetics and clothing dyes

Zoos often feed flamingos chile so the birds will retain their distinctive pink color, which they lose when deprived of their natural food of calcium-rich crustaceans. Without the dye in their diet, the birds turn white. Aquariums also feed chile to gold fish to help them keep their bright orange color.

Repellent:

Chile has become a widespread alternative to tear gas and mace to repel muggers and ornery bears. Capsaicin also has been used to discourage rodents from chewing on electrical cable in Alaska and to keep pesky barnacles at bay when added to boat hull paint.

Pain Relief:

Capsaicin, the ingredient in chile that makes it hot or pungent has been used very successfully for pain relief. As a liniment (Heet, Sloan's and some prescription creams) it is used for treatment of arthritis, shingles, contact allergies and phantom limb pain. Rubbing some capsaicin cream on the temples also reportedly eases the pain of cluster headaches.

Vitamins:

The red color in chiles is beta carotene. A half-tablespoon a day will give you your daily requirement of vitamin A. One New Mexico long green chile pod contains six times as much vitamin C as one orange.

The Missing Heart Queen by Joe Harris

I played this hand at the club last week.

♠ xx ♥ Axx ♦ Jx ♣ Kxxxxx

All Vulnerable, the bidding went pass by partner, 1 spade, pass by me, pass, 2 hearts by partner, 2 spades, 3 clubs by me. Since I hadn't overcalled originally I thought my bid showed clubs and a heart raise. I was surprised when everyone passed. LHO led the J spades and this was the dummy....

♠ xxx ♥ KJT9x ♦ Qx ♣ Axx

I have two spade losers and two diamond losers and maybe a club and a heart. But it looked like we have only 4 tricks at most against spades or diamonds, so if I could hold this to down one, we should have a good board. RHO won the spade ace, the king (LHO following) and queen on which I threw a diamond and LHO signaled with a high diamond. RHO shifted to the diamond 2 and LHO won the trick with the ace. He returned a diamond to the king and I ruffed. I'd been lucky they hadn't played diamonds first and then uppercut me with the third round of spades. I now played trumps and was lucky that they were 2-2 with LHO holding the jack and RHO the queen. Now I was going to make the hand if I could find the heart queen. I was going to play RHO for that card, but before I played hearts I cashed a couple of clubs. LHO pitched two diamonds and RHO pitched a spade and then a heart !! What was going on? Surely LHO didn't hold:

♠ Jx ♥ Qxx ♦ ATxxxx ♣ Jx and never bid

But why would RHO throw a heart instead of another spade or diamond if he held:

♠ AKQxxx ♥ Qx ♦ Kxx ♣ Qx

I looked under the table to see if the heart queen had been dropped on the floor, but it looked like everyone had the correct number of cards left. So I cashed the ace of hearts and both followed small. When I led another heart LHO again followed small, but he had to have the queen, didn't he? So I finessed and RHO did show out and I made 3 clubs for +110 and a top. Unfortunately we only got to play two boards against this pair.
